

PLANT SAFETY IN THE WORKPLACE

Antons Moulding Pty Ltd is committed to assisting in the improvement of workplace health and safety. We, that is, Antons and customers alike, are constantly reminded that in our capacity as employers, there is an ongoing obligation to safety in the workplace in respect to employees as set out in the relevant Occupational Health and Safety legislation and regulation in all states. This obligation includes the safe operation of plant (machinery) in the workplace.

Antons understands its obligations as an importer and supplier of machinery. As a consequence we regularly encourage our international manufacturers to:

- Develop machinery with the highest levels of safety technology considerations in mind, and
- Design and make available additional safety products for machinery.

Anton's commitment extends to the employment of professional OH & S personnel to provide information on plant, in the form of risk assessments that can be extended to our cliental. All these tools available assist in the improvement of workplace health and safety.
